

Introduction to Audience

Identifying Audiences

Audiences are often categorised by demographics such as age, gender and education (see examples in table). Are you able to identify who the audience would be for the texts below and why?

child	teen	adult	elderly	male student	graduate	professor	uneducated	female

Note: Texts can appeal to more than a single demographic.

1. Note Harry, that life is so much more fun
As a two or a three than a solitary one
And whoever else should arrive, Mummy and Daddy have sworn
To remember that you, dirty Harry, are still our first born.
2. Commonly used chemotherapies can lead to resistance to drugs with different modes of actions. Goldman et al. investigated why breast cancer cells treated with taxanes become resistant to the unrelated, routinely used doxorubicin. The authors found that taxane-treated breast cancer cells became more reliant on oxidative and non-oxidative glucose metabolism.
3. Green might be an unloved nail polish colour, but after scrolling through our selection of Instagram's best bits, we can guarantee that will change. We've got every shade covered and every design. So, whether you're looking for micro flora, neon French tips or custom art, don't reach for the dotting tool without first clicking here.
4. During the whole of a dull, dark, and soundless day in the autumn of the year, when the clouds hung oppressively low in the heavens, I had been passing alone, on horseback, through a singularly dreary tract of country; and at length found myself, as the shades of the evening drew on, within view of the melancholy House of Usher.
